Increased Customer Satisfaction

Travelers expect fast and efficient, no hassles service when traveling away from home. However, travel is among the ten top industries receiving the most complaints because of incidents in service. Claims management is a high cost to airlines and tour operators around the world. The profitability and reputation of companies operating in this segment are directly related to a quality customer service. The Presence Suite improves customer satisfaction by allowing the traveler to communicate with the travel operator any time of day via multi-channels including phone, email, fax, SMS, Web chat and social media, enabling them to always obtain information, even while they are on the go. When the traveler does reach out to the contact center, Presence Intelligent Routing is able to immediately route the interaction to the correct agent or system, reducing the traveler’s hold time, and the Presence Scripting tool helps ensure the accuracy of information being disseminated, by providing the agent with correct information, along with the ability to change strategies on the fly, based on different travel scenarios.

Lower Operational Costs

The Presence Suite can automate many tasks associated with travel. Presence IVR utilizes self service options for tasks such as confirming flights or car rentals, notifying travelers of changes, and allowing seat selections. This also helps to alleviate wait times that callers experience when trying to speak to an agent, as Presence allows many transactions to bypass agent interaction.

Presence Back Office can automate tasks such as sending reservation confirmations and payment details from the reservation center to the specific properties, car agencies or airlines.
